

Run one honest barter-circle test

The goal is one useful two-person exchange - or clear evidence of why it failed.

1 SET A REAL BOUNDARY

- Choose one ZIP, building, workplace, campus, or trusted group.
- Recruit only 2 to 5 people. Each person posts one offer they can fulfill now.
- Every offer states scope, timing, local or remote mode, and 2 or 3 realistic returns.

2 MAKE ONE PLAUSIBLE MATCH

- Choose one offer and invite one person who could genuinely want it.
- Write the exact goods, services, quantities, timing, location, materials, and rescheduling terms.
- Either person may decline without pressure. The organizer observes but does not negotiate for them.

3 BUILD SAFETY INTO THE TEST

- For local exchanges: prefer daylight and a public place, tell someone, and inspect goods first.
- For remote services: define the session and never share passwords, codes, financial data, or device access.
- Use only lawful goods and services. Stop if the person, place, or terms change unexpectedly.

4 COUNT ONLY WHAT HAPPENED

- 1 Genuine offer posted
- 2 Plausible invitation opened
- 3 Proposal made
- 4 Both people joined the conversation
- 5 Clear terms agreed
- 6 Real exchange happened
- 7 Both people separately confirmed completion

Record the result

A failed match is useful evidence when the reason is written down.
